AFTER THE SEARCH

Which jobs deserve your time first?

Whether you use AI or review jobs yourself, start here: can you make a credible case for the core work and level of responsibility?

01 Ready to compare

Relevant or transferable experience supports a case, and the role meets your firm requirements.

02 Clarify

A material detail is missing. Keep the role visible and name the question.

03 Set aside

A confirmed mismatch or genuine dealbreaker. Record why.

A credible case can include transferable experience. You do not need every bullet or the same previous title.

CHOOSE WHAT MATTERS TO YOU

Give the comparison your priorities.

These questions informed my search. Adapt them to yours.

01 Landing / Fit

How strong is your candidacy for the actual work, scope and stated requirements?

02 Compensation

Does the package work for you? Compare pay on the same basis and keep missing components visible.

03 AI-durability

How much involves judgment, relationships and decisions? How much is routine production that AI could change?

If you use scores, agree what they mean and what counts most. They do not predict hiring or job security.

REVIEW IT YOURSELF

You can make a useful decision without a score.

Fictional example: a process coordinator opening.

01 Experience

You have coordinated work across teams and improved one team’s process. The role coordinates a rollout led by a manager.

02 Interest and conditions

You want more process work. The full-time arrangement, location and confirmed pay work for you.

03 Next step: pursue

Prepare your process-change example. Ask which handoffs are causing the most delays.

Choose a next step: pursue, clarify or pass. No numeric ratings needed.

USE YOUR AI

Ask for an assessment you can question.

The same fictional process coordinator opening.

Landing / Fit	Credible stretch
Cross-team coordination experience; process improvements at a smaller scope.
Compensation	Workable tradeoff
Confirmed cash-only pay meets the minimum but falls below the target.
AI-durability	Judgment-heavy work
Handoff negotiation and exception decisions, alongside routine reporting.

Next step: pursue

Prepare the process-change example. Ask which handoffs cause the most delays.

The posting cannot tell you the team’s current blockers. AI’s assessment needs evidence and room for unanswered questions.

COMPARE OPENINGS

Bring a few jobs you are considering.

01 Review it yourself

Read the posting, connect it to your experience and check the conditions. Record your next step.

02 Use your AI

Prepare a prompt, then give it to your AI with your experience and the job descriptions. Agree your priorities and review its assessment.

03 Include saved openings

Compare them with new finds before choosing which application to work on next.
